Associate Attorney, June 2020 – Present

Hayman-Woodward PLLC, Washington, DC

Attorney, June 2019 – June 2020

Conducting consultation meetings with foreign clients, seeking to petition for permanent residency within the United States, to determine which visa classifications they are eligible for and advising on which would be the best route in their particular case. Conducting legal research regarding decisions of the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) Administrative Appeals Office, as well as memoranda published by USCIS and the Department of Homeland Security. Reviewing requests by USCIS for additional evidence, determining and collecting the appropriate evidence from the affected client, and drafting responses to the requests for evidence, addressing each question raised. Managing and reviewing the work of a team of five legal associates and drafters.

Michael L. Davis, Senior Lecturer in Law, Antonin Scalia Law School, Arlington, VA

Research Assistant, March 2019 – May 2019

Provided legal research for, drafted, and edited written and visual presentation materials on recent developments in Virginia evidentiary rules and case law for the 2019 Judicial Conference. This included the recent adoption of Rule 2:606(b)(ii)(d) and its effect on the Tanner Doctrine; the doctrine of forfeiture by wrongdoing; the broad language of Rule 2:803(4) and its effect on fault based statements in medical records; the evolution of Virginia's Dead Man's Statute; and the use of depositions in motions for summary judgment.

National Nuclear Security Administration, Washington, DC

Law Clerk, September 2017 – December 2017

Drafted a Privacy Act compliance memorandum defending the proposed collection of personally identifiable information of foreign students seeking to enter the United States to work in nuclear energy research at various universities. Provided legal research and developed a memorandum for the Department of State regarding the scope of nuclear technology cooperation and sharing between the United States and United Kingdom allowable under a mutual defense agreement. Attended weekly law group meetings to report research results to other members of the Office of General Counsel and the National Nuclear Security Administration's satellite offices.

Whitestone Young, PC, Fairfax, VA

Law Clerk, June 2017 – August 2017

Provided legal research for, edited, and assisted in the drafting of a brief appealing a kidnapping conviction in the Fairfax County District Court. Drafted a Notice and Motion to Suppress and Request for Franks Hearing arguing for the suppression of blood evidence in a driving under the influence case. Performed legal research and prepared memoranda regarding a variety of topics ranging from criminal law to civil litigation. Communicated results to supervising attorneys. Conducted intake interviews with potential clients within the confines of the Fairfax County Detention Center. Attended attorney-client meetings to explain research results and legal theories to clients as they applied to their case.

Association of Fish & Wildlife Agencies, Washington, DC

Law Clerk, June 2016 – August 2016

Performed legal research on various topics, including a compilation of state feral animal population control laws and an analysis of the amount of deference given to Native American tribal governments in the drafting of a new contract, to assist various state conservation agencies. Drafted appendices to comment letters to be sent to Congress during the comment period of new laws being considered. Summarized recent cases to contribute to the Wildlife Law Call-Case Studies E-Newsletter (Summer 2016), a quarterly newsletter distributed by the Association describing new trends in conservation and environmental law. Assisted the general counsel in the authoring of a law textbook chapter describing the history of the law as it applies to wildlife in the United States.
